LOOKING UP DAISY UNG'S PAST

POLICE PRETTY SURE CHINESE HUSBAND DIDN'T KILL HER.

Stories of Che and His Comrades Leave Residue of Truth Enough for Alibi -Razor Not a Chinese Weapon-Negro Lover Now Suspected-Cho Still Held.

While they have made no apparent progress toward catching the real murderer, the police have about arrived at the conclusion that Cho Ung, alias Charlie Young, Chinese, did not murder his mulatto wife. Daisy, who was found dead in her flat at 125 Fast 128th street early Sunday morning. The Chinese husband, together with two partners in the laundry business. has been sent to the House of Dentention as a witness, but only by way of being on the safe side.

"Some negro lover." say the police, and they are looking into the woman's past. Cho Ung. a small. Americanized, insignificant looking cropped haired Chinaman, and his petite and pretty mulatto wife had been in the house a month. He was at home very little. He says that on those occasions he slept on a bench in the laun-

The police have the positive testimony of at least one man on that point.

Friday night the tenants in the house below heard a commotion in Cho Ung's flat. There was a voiceleas scuffling, the sound of a falling body and then silence. After a time a man went down the stairs, but still some one moved about in Cho's flat, walking from toom to room. It sounded like the footstep of a man. Certainly if the murder occurred during that scuffle it was not Mrs. Cho; she must have died at once.

The woman had fought hard for her life.

Evidence was forthcoming that she had a "date" on that Friday night. Earlier in the evening she had taken pains to tell two different women in the house that she expected to be indoors early, because her husband was going to bring up from the laundry two or three friends, whom he was teaching English. and all were given a searching examination at the 104th street police station.

The examination, as is usual in Chinese cases, was extremely unsatisfactory. When he gets into a hole, a Chinaman lies by instinct, when the truth would suit better. Starting with a fine alibi, the three Chinese got more and more mixed in their answers, but came back at last and stuck to the statement that Cho Ung worked in the laundry Friday evening and after a short run home went back there to sleep.

The murderer must have carried away dozens of blood stains. After the murder, he picked up a lamp, which bears still the marks of his bloody hands. He went to the next room, and there wiped off a lot of stains on the white linen in a bureau drawer. Cho Ung had no blood stains on his clothes. Scrapings of his finger nails were taken by Coroner Jackson; they have not yet been analyzed. He carried no weapons. A razor was found in the room, but it was clean and bright.

but it was clean and bright.

The suspicion of Cho Ung rests almost wholly on the fact that in the infidelity of his wife he had a motive. On the other hand, the razor is not a Chinese value in murders it is a negro implement.

GOSSIP OF WALL STREET.

Although yesterday's stock market was ery uneven, as a dull and hestitating market is likely to be, it was on the whole more strong weak, and a kind of encouragement will always be found in this combination of strength and inactivity. The bear demon-stration that was made in the last ten minutes of trading on Saturday was continued only in Metropolitan Street Railway. Other stocks pened generally at advances over Saturday's notations and ruled higher throughinal quotations and rules have but the day. Early in the session it was plain that the market had broken away plain that the market had broken away from the influence of the depressed traction

Rumors that the new Russian loan would fail were used to some effect upon this market last week by the bear element. International houses here were advised vesterday by their Berlin correspondents that the new loan had advanced to a premium of 114 per cent. and that the old loan was up 34 per cent. A more optimistic general sentiment was reported from both London and Berlin. This is a reminder of the fact that studied efforts have been made on the part of those in Wall Street having interests and followers abroad to create foreign confidence in American securities, particularly such securities as have recently been listed on foreign exchanges or offered directly to foreign investors. Some pretty definite promises have been made concerning particular stocks, and Chinese fashion, as long as there is any as it is hoped to accomplish a considerable distribution of these stocks through the medium of foreign exchanges such promises. it is thought, are likely to be kept. Rock Island is a stock concerning which bullish predictions are said to have been responsibly

The failure within a fortnight of several efforts on the part of the Western bull crowd to create any general buying sentiment is commented upon adversely in speculative circles, and is referred to as proof that the market will not bull. "Traders cannot start the market up again," said an operator yesterday who is personally very optimistic on the speculative prospect. "Neither will the market respond to the initiative of any organized clique. You have seen that. What is needed is leadership that the commission house public, advised by its brokers, will believe in and follow. The buying power is here. Let any group of the so-called big interests resume active leadership in one or two prominent stocks and turn them to the oull side of the market and this sentiment that you speak of as being more bearish than bullish would change completely in twenty-four hours. People want something to trade on. Brokers want it. They would The woman had fought hard for her life. A rocking chair had been overturned in the fracas. The backs of her hands were ripped in a dozen places, as though she had clasped them to her throat to guard it. The job was almost certainly done with a razor; that could be told by the cleanness of the cuts on her hands and throat. She lay on a sofa, her head resting on a window sill. She was fully dressed.

The buying of Union Pacific under 115 yesterday was of a somewhat more substantial character than any that has been seen for several weeks. Some of it, brokers said, was such as has several times preceded a new upward swing in the stock. The point at which the buying looked best, brokers said, was 114. Some of the more aggressive traders were inclined to resist the advance. because they thought that the information to belong of it for a turn had been too freely circulated before the opening.

A movement of doubtful consequence was made in the Steel stocks on the report that the earnings for the last quarter would approximate $20,000,000. They seemed to be rather freely supplied at the figures of 93 and 30, respectively. A good deal of the selling was evidently based upon the belief that this estimate of earnings was too optimistic and that it was intended for speculative consumption only.

A rise of 8% points in Interborough Rapid Transit stock on the curb yesterday led to a renewal of the reports in Wall Street that a merger between the Interborough and the Metropolitan Street Railway system would soon be brought about; but no more confirmation was obtainable for this report than for its predecessors. Some 6,000 shares of Interborough were dealt in, the price running from 171% to 179, and closing at 177%. On the Stock Exchange Metropolitan shares were again weak, the Street Railway stock selling off 1 point to 1141/2 and the Securities a point to 7314.

ARRESTED BY DRUNKEN MAN.

SO PIENNOIS SAYS, AND ADDS THAT HE WAS BEATEN.

Cops Oddly Mixed When Prisoner Is Arraigned-Admit There Was a Drunken Man, but Don't Produce Him-Piennois Says Poilceman Donnelly Is the Man.

Magistrate Ommen summoned Capt. Cottrell to Jefferson Market police court yesterday afternoon to call his attention to the tangled story of an arrest made Sunday morning by Policeman Donnelly of the Tenderloin. The Magistrate said he did not like the looks of the evidence and dismissed the prisoner. Capt. Cottrell promised to take the case to Inspector McLaughlin to-day.

Peter Piennois, 31 years old, of 178 West Twenty-third street, was arraigned by Donnelly on a charge of disorderly conduct. In the complaint, Donnelly alleged that Piennois had annoyed women, but on the stand he told Magistrate Ommen only that he had arrested the prisoner "because I told him to go away and he wouldn't."

The story Piennois told Magistrate Ommen was that he had been walking along Seventh avenue between Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth streets when he saw a drunken man lying down, with a woman crying near him. He tried to help the man up and was abused and called all sorts of names. Then the drunken man according to Piennois, pulled a gun and threatened to shoot him. Piennois hunted up Policeman Murphy of the West Twentieth street station and asked him to arrest the man with the gun. Thereupon the man with the gun said: "I'm a detective." and arrested Piennois. The prisoner told Magistrate Ommen that he was searched in the station house by the same drunken in the station house by the same drunken man, and the same man afterward took him downstairs and beat him.

Two witnesses, George Bullobact of 174 West Twenty-third street, and Joseph Callerghas of 131 West Twenty-fifth street told the same story, so far as the arrest was concerned.

Policemen Murphy and Donnelly said that they had taken Piennois from a man with a gun who said he was a detective.

"Who was this man and where did he come from—what precinct?" asked the Magistrate. Both Murphy and Donnelly answered:

"Don't know."

"That's the way with you policemen," exclaimed Magistrate Ommen. "When there is any question of a brother policeman's action you never know anything about it."

It developed later that Donnelly had been

It developed later that Donnelly had been off duty and in citizen's clothes at the time of the arrest. He admitted having visited a saloon, but said he had gone there to see a friend. At the afternoon hearing Piennois, after looking sharply at Donnelly, axelaimed: claimed:
"I think now that he is the man who ar-

Capt. Cottrell was near the desk when Piennois was brought in. He went into his room soon after and said he noticed nothing unusual in the case.

A dull market naturally breeds a superficial bear sentiment in Wall Street. The votaries are reduced to the extremity of trading with each other, and there is no money in it.

In January last year the Gates crowd was the most aggressive speculative factor in the market. Its unaided operations, however, were premature, and the movement culminated abruptly on an interview from John W. Gates telling how bullish he was.

The wildest predictions made at this time were fulfilled before the end of tho year, but nobody would believe in them in January:
